Emma's fight

Wells County girl battles cancer as community rallies behind her; car show fundraiser set for Sept. 26

By JESSICA BRICKER

Emma Liddy was nervous when she stood in front of the crowd, clutching a microphone in her hands. Her special song played over the speakers.

Her eyes scanned the crowd as her little voice rose above that of the track's singer. Emma knows all the words.

"This is my fight song. Take back my life song. Prove I'm alright song. My power's turned on. Starting right now I'll be strong. I'll play my fight song. And I don't really care if nobody else believes. 'Cause I've still got a lot of fight left in me."

Attendees of the campground talent show clapped and cheered. Emma smiled.

Emma loves singing and has a playlist of frequently requested songs but "Fight Song" by Rachel Platten is one she'll ask to hear for a reason.

"It's just amazing how ... she just links that song specifically to fighting off her cancer," said Emma's mom, Allison Liddy.

In early April, Emma — who turned 5 years old this month — was diagnosed with a rare childhood cancer in the lungs, pleuropulmonary blastoma, after she was taken to the hospital in pain. She had surgery to remove the tumor and is currently undergoing chemotherapy.

There have been T-shirt sales and a bake sale downtown. Countless community members sent her birthday cards. Emma's smiling face is on a billboard on Main Street. And on Saturday, Sept. 26, there will be a car show fundraiser for Emma's family.

The community's support since the diagnosis has been overwhelmingly positive, Liddy said this week. And it's been a lot to process.

Liddy said her family — which includes husband Travis and 3-year-old son Cooper — feels the prayers and support people have sent their way. She said she is thankful for the community's support over the past several months.

She said Emma gets excited when she sees her billboard because people get to see

Friday fun downtown

The downtown Mural Fest kicked off Friday with food vendors and the ability for visitors to watch the artists creating murals as they continue to work on their installations. Above, Nancy Wagner works on a portrait of the county's namesake, William Wells, at the corner of Main and Market streets. That is just one aspect of her large photo album mural. Below, David Rice makes progress on his piece on the Parlor City Plaza. At left, 3-year-old Blake Wygant enjoys a bite of chocolate-covered fruit on a ZUM stick, a fair food staple, that her mom Jordan Wygant holds. The downtown activities continue Saturday with the Parlor City Market, live music, food vendors and shopping. View a photo gallery on Sunday from the Mural Fest online at www.news-banner.com (Photos by Jessica Bricker)

Recognizing those in the community for what they do

Question posed on News-Banner's social media leads to 'nominations;' essential workers, teachers, Parks Department among honorees

By JESSICA BRICKER

For years community members have been recognized for their contributions to Wells County and beyond as grand marshals of the Bluffton Free Street Fair.

However this year, there are no parades, rides or games scheduled for the upcoming week on downtown city streets. Traffic will move about unaltered. No large groups will be congregating. There will not be any signs that the state's largest street fair is held in Bluffton each fall.

Earlier this year the COVID-19 pandemic forced the event's board of directors to cancel the fair out of concerns about the deadly disease. Many festivals and fairs have been canceled in the pandemic's wake.

In place of the annual announcement about the grand marshal, The News-Banner used social media to ask: If you were to recognize someone with the title, who would it be and why? Several different responses came in and some of the same were also repeated. (Note: This nomination is not sanctioned by Street Fair Association officials and is not a formal contest.)

Some who commented wanted to recognize first responders, police and nurses. Others wanted to recognize Wells County teachers, grocery store workers and truck drivers.

"They put in countless hours scrubbing and disinfecting," Abigail Schoeff said of grocers. "Their job is thankless. Many people treat them like third class citizens, expecting more and more and not showing kindness."

In nominating school and nursing home employees, M Lynn Reeder said, "... (T)his has been a

At the recent talent show was the first time Emma had sung in front of a crowd like that, Liddy said. Afterward she was thrilled.

There were also a few individuals nominated by name, including downtown businessman Ed Thompson; Street Fair lover Joe Ayers, who also goes by "Santa;" community volunteer Judy Herring, "because of who she is to so many;" Samantha Moser said, also noting Herring's birthday is during the fair; and Ed Schwartz of Loving Shepherd Ministry.

Other votes came in for Matt Yergler, owner of Yergy's State Road BBQ who has been in the news recently after publicly defying the state's mask mandate.

"Hats off to him for standing up to what he and others believe in," Karen Nash said, "but being the only one who said anything."

Also receiving a few shout-outs were Pam Vanderkolk, Brandy Fiechter and the staff of the Bluffton Parks and Recreation Department.

"They had all their events planned for the year and had to change or come up with an alternate plan," Sheila Ramseyer-Flotow said. "People don't under-

Grand "Sweet" Fair Week

Grand Sweet Shop, Stylus Technologies and Big Dipper are sponsoring a multi-day event in the 900 block of North Main Street, culminating with a car show on Saturday, Sept. 26, and proceeds will go to the Liddy family.

Each day will feature fair food vendors and has something planned. The event will be set up from 3 to 8 p.m.

On Wednesday, Sept. 23, local first responders and veterans will be honored. On Thursday, Sept. 24, The Simpson Family will put on a Christian music concert. Friday, Sept. 25, is Kids' Day, with face painting, games and more.

Saturday's car show is from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Registration is 8 a.m. to noon with awards at 3 p.m. The cost is $10 per car and there will be a 50/50 drawing, food and games.

Will Betz said he is 58 years old and benefited from the department's programs "back in the day," including arts and crafts and tennis.

"Just think about how much she has enriched the community by doing tremendous work to gain funds from the federal and state level that have enabled Parks programs to be elevated and new programs to be initiated," Betz said of Vanderkolk. "Pam has done more in this community for kids since she has been involved than anyone during that time span. That cannot be denied."

This was the weekend it was all to come to town, the annual set-up period when Poor Jack Amusement rides are installed around downtown Bluffton before what would have been Tuesday's opening night parade.

Instead, community members will have the chance this weekend to celebrate public art pieces that will likely be around for years after 2020.

Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg dies at 87

By MARK SHERMAN

Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, a towering women's rights champion who became the court's second female justice, died Friday at her home in Washington. She was 87.

Ginsburg died of complications from metastatic pancreatic cancer, the court said.

Her death just over six weeks before Election Day is likely to set off a heated battle over whether President Donald Trump should nominate, and the Republican-led Senate should confirm, her replacement, or if the seat should remain vacant until the outcome of his race against Democrat Joe Biden is known. Majority Leader Mitch McConnell said late Friday that the Senate will vote on Trump's pick to replace Ginsburg, even though it's an election year.

Trump called Ginsburg an "amazing woman" and did not mention filling her vacant Supreme Court seat when he spoke to reporters following a rally in Bemidji, Minnesota.

Biden said the winner of the November election should choose Ginsburg's replacement. "There is no doubt -- let me be clear -- that the voters should pick the president and the president should pick the justice for the Senate to consider," Biden told reporters after returning to his hometown of Wilmington, Delaware, from campaign stops in Minnesota.

Chief Justice John Roberts mourned Ginsburg's passing. "Our Nation has lost a jurist of historic stature. We at the Supreme Court have lost a cherished colleague. Today we mourn, but with confidence that future generations will remember Ruth Bader Ginsburg as we knew her — a tireless and resolute champion of justice," Roberts said in a statement.

Ginsburg announced in July that she was undergoing chemotherapy treatment for lesions on her liver, the latest of her several battles with cancer.

Ginsburg spent her final years on the bench as the unquestioned leader of the court's liberal wing and became something of a rock star to her admirer s. Young women especially seemed to embrace the court's Jewish grandmother, affectionately calling her the Notorious RBG, for her defense of the rights of women and minorities, and the strength and resilience she displayed in the face of personal loss and health crises.

Those health issues included five bouts with cancer beginning in 1999, falls that resulted in broken ribs, insertion of a stent to clear a blocked artery and assorted other hospitalizations after she turned 75.

She resisted calls by liberals to retire during Barack Obama's presidency at a time when Democrats held the Senate and a replacement with similar views could have been confirmed. Instead, Trump will almost certainly try to push Ginsburg's successor through the Republican-controlled Senate — and move the conservative court even more to the right.

Ginsburg antagonized Trump during the 2016 presidential campaign in a series of media interviews, including calling him a faker. She soon apologized.

Her appointment by President Bill Clinton in 1993 was the first by a Democrat in 26 years. She initially found a comfortable ideological home somewhere left of center on a conservative court dominated by Republican appointees. Her liberal voice grew stronger the longer she served.

Ginsburg was a mother of two, an opera lover and an intellectual who watched arguments behind oversized glasses for many years, though she ditched them for more fashionable frames in her later years. At argument sessions in the ornate courtroom, she was known for digging deep into case records and for being a stickler for following the rules.

She argued six key cases before the court in the 1970s when she was an architect of the women's rights movement. She won five.

"Ruth Bader Ginsburg does not need a seat on the Supreme Court to earn her place in the American history books," Clinton said at the time of her appointment. "She has already done that."

Following her death, Clinton said, "Her 27 years on the Court exceeded even my highest expectations when I appointed her."

On the court, where she was known as a facile writer, her most significant majority opinions were the 1996 ruling that ordered the Virginia Military Institute to accept women or give up its state funding, and the 2015 decision that upheld independent commissions some states use to draw congressional districts.

Besides civil rights, Ginsburg took an interest in capital punishment, voting repeatedly to limit its use. During her tenure, the court declared it unconstitutional for states to execute the intellectually disabled and killers younger than 18.

In addition, she questioned the quality of lawyers for poor accused murderers. In the most divisive of cases, including the Bush v. Gore decision in 2000, she was often at odds with the court's more conservative members — initially Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist and Justices Sandra Day O'Connor, Antonin Scalia, Anthony M. Kennedy and Clarence Thomas.

The division remained the same after John Roberts replaced Rehnquist as chief justice, Samuel Alito took O'Connor's seat, and, under Trump, Neil Gorsuch and Brett Kavanaugh joined the court, in seats that had been held by Scalia and Kennedy, respectively.

Ginsburg would say later that the 5-4 decision that settled the 2000 presidential election for Republican George W. Bush was a "breathtaking episode" at the court.

She was perhaps personally closest on the court to Scalia, her ideological opposite. Ginsburg once explained that she took Scalia's sometimes biting dissents as a challenge to be met. "How am I going to answer this in a way that's a real putdown?" she said.

When Scalia died in 2016, also an election year, Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell refused to act on Obama's nomination of Judge Merrick Garland to fill the opening. The seat remained vacant until after Trump's surprising presidential victory. McConnell has said he would move to confirm a Trump nominee if there were a vacancy this year.

Reached by phone late Friday, Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, declined to disclose any plans. He called Ginsburg a "trailblazer" and said, "While I had many differences with her on legal philosophy, I appreciate her service to our nation."

Top Senate Democrat Chuck Schumer tweeted: "The American people should have a voice in the selection of their next Supreme Court Justice. Therefore, this vacancy should not be filled until we have a new president."

Ginsburg authored powerful dissents of her own in cases involving abortion, voting rights and pay discrimination against women. She said some were aimed at swaying the opinions of her fellow judges while others were "an appeal to the intelligence of another day" in the hopes that they would provide guidance to future courts.

"Hope springs eternal," she said in 2007, "and when I am writing a dissent, I'm always hoping for that fifth or sixth vote — even though I'm disappointed more often than not."

She wrote memorably in 2013 that the court's decision to cut out a key part of the federal law that had ensured the voting rights of Black people, Hispanics and other minorities was "like throwing away your umbrella in a rainstorm because you are not getting wet."

Change on the court hit Ginsburg especially hard. She dissented forcefully from the court's decision in 2007 to uphold a nationwide ban on an abortion procedure that opponents call partial-birth abortion. The court, with O'Connor still on it, had struck down a similar state ban seven years earlier. The "alarming" ruling, Ginsburg said, "cannot be understood as anything other than an effort to chip away at a right declared again and again by this court — and with increasing comprehension of its centrality to women's lives."

In 1999, Ginsburg had surgery for colon cancer and received radiation and chemotherapy. She had surgery again in 2009 after being diagnosed with pancreatic cancer and

McConnell promises quick vote on successor

By JONATHAN LEMIRE and LISA MASCARO

Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death of Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg just over six weeks before the election cast an immediate spotlight on the high court vacancy, with Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell quickly vowing to bring to a vote whoever President Donald Trump nominates.

McConnell, in a statement just over an hour after Ginsburg's death was announced, declared unequivocally that Trump's nominee would receive a vote, even though he had stalled President Barack Obama's choice for months ahead of the 2016 election, eventually preventing a vote.

Trump, in brief remarks to reporters after learning of her death, called Ginsburg "an amazing woman," adding that "she led an amazing life." He had continued with a campaign speech for about an hour after the nation learned of her death, and said later he had been unaware.

He had boasted in the speech that the next presidential term could offer him as many as four appointments to the nine-member court, whose members are confirmed for life.

Ginsburg's death could significantly affect the presidential race, further stirring passions in the deeply divided nation as the campaign pushes into its stretch run.

Trump took the stage for a Minnesota rally not long before Ginsburg's death was announced. He spoke for more than 90 minutes, never mentioning it, apparently not alerted to the development. He spoke to reporters about her passing as he boarded Air Force One to return to Washington.

But he did say in his speech that whoever is elected in November will have the ability to potentially fill several Supreme vacancies, declaring, "This is going to be the most important election in the history of our country and we have to get it right."

in December 2018 for cancerous growths on her left lung. Following the last surgery, she missed court sessions for the first time in more than 25 years on the bench.

Ginsburg also was treated with radiation for a tumor on her pancreas in August 2019. She maintained an active schedule even during the three weeks of radiation. When she revealed a recurrence of her cancer in July 2020, Ginsburg said she remained "fully able" to continue as a justice.

Joan Ruth Bader was born in Brooklyn, New York, in 1933, the second daughter in a middle-class family. Her older sister, who gave her the lifelong nickname "Kiki," died at age 6, so Ginsburg grew up in Brooklyn's Flatbush section as an only child. Her dream, she has said, was to be an opera singer.

Ginsburg graduated at the top of her Columbia University law school class in 1959 but could not find a law firm willing to hire her. She had "three strikes against her" — for being Jewish, female and a mother, as she put it in 2007.

Bluffton Parks & Rec News & Notes

By Pam Vanderkolk

Destination Recreation

Well, the yellow jackets are going to be disappointed this year as they have started showing up for the Street Fair. I won't miss the battle with them over my fair goodies.

Speaking of fair goodies ... we realize that there are numerous disappointed people that the fair will not be happening this year, but there are many places that are at least making attempts for you to get your fair food fix!

You can start with this weekend at the Parlor City Plaza with the Mural Fest. While it started yesterday, there is still time to enjoy today also! Local food vendors are open for lunch and dinner and the Parlor City Market is in business from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. today. There will be local shopping and live music. All of this complements the two awesome murals that will be in the process of being created in downtown Bluffton! There is plenty of room to get together, keep social distanced, and enjoy the best of downtown Bluffton.

Today's event schedule is as follows: 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. — Parlor City Market 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. — Local food vendors

2 to 5 p.m. — Live music, Rylie Lynn 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. — Live music, Adam and Nefy

8 to 10 pm. — Live music, The Ill-gals

Then on Tuesday evening, we have more than 30 golf carts lined up for our second Golf Cart Caravan to drive through the neighborhoods and spread a little cheer starting at 6:30 p.m. It's not too late to sign up — just send a private message to the Parks Department with your name, phone, and e-mail, or call us at 824-6060, or email us at parks@ci.blufftonindiana.gov and you are all set!

You can see the route that will be taken on our Bluffton Parks Facebook page. You can sit out in your front lawn to watch and wave as we go by.

We'll start at Life Church and go south on Jersey Street to Clark Avenue. The parade will turn left on Spring Street and proceed east to Stogdill and make its way through the streets of the southeast side of the city, finally coming back up Wayne Street to Market Street through downtown. The parade will turn around on Bond Street and head back on Washington Street to Midway to South Street and end where it started, at Life Church.

Food vendors — confirmed right now are Big Dipper and Hoosier Kitchen — will be at the church until 9 p.m.

The Grand Sweet Shop at 953 and 962 N. Main St. will also be hosting some Street Fair fun, food, and music from 3 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, and then at car show on Saturday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. The event is a fundraiser for Emmy Liddy. You can see more on their Facebook page.

And finally, we will host two events on Saturday, Sept. 26.

First for you runners and walkers: Registration is open for our Harvest Hustle 5K that will be held at 9 a.m. The cost is only $15 and includes an event T-shirt. You can sign up online at <https://raceroster.com/events/2020/33449/harvest-hustle> or pick-up a paper copy at the Parks Department office.

There will be overall and age group awards. Runners and walkers are welcome. Yummy donuts will be available after the race!

The second event on Saturday will be a Paddle Parade down the Wabash River. Bring your kayak or canoe and join us at the White Bridge. Drop your kayak or canoe at the White Bridge at the east end of the River Greenway between 3 and 3:30 p.m. Saturday, then drive your vehicle and park at the Keohoe Park parking lot. We will transport you back to the launch site in time for a 4 p.m. group launch! This is a free event.

You don't have to decorate your boat, but there are some cool prizes that can be won for people that do!

Just a reminder that the Roush Park Splash Pad and the Washington Street Splash Pad have been closed for the season. They will reopen next May.

Have an enjoyable week!

Thursday, 9:20 p.m., residence in the 600 block of Willowbrook Trail. Caller reported that someone in a large, loud truck pulled into one driveway, got out, got back into the truck and pulled into another driveway and did not exit the truck. Officer responded, but did not see a vehicle matching the description.

Thursday, 11:46 p.m., 500 block of East Silver Street. Report of a suspicious man walking with a back pack through a yard and who may have been inside a garage of a residence in the neighborhood. Officers dispatched and located the man, later identified as Bruce Lee Garring, 31, near the intersection of Liberty and Arnold streets and spoke with him. It was noted in one of the reports that Garring was wearing a hooded sweatshirt with the hood up pulled tight and a cloth covering his face. He reportedly was evasive and declined to answer law enforcement officer's questions, including if he was armed (reportedly he had a dagger-type knife on him) or why he had a pair of bolt cutters in his backpack. He also told police officers that he had been homeless for nine years and took a bus from Cleveland, Ohio, to Fort Wayne where he was picked up by a friend who dropped him off in Bluffton. Garring told the officers he came to Bluffton looking for sex. He then reportedly broke away from an officer trying to place Garring into a patrol car, and ran away from officers. When they caught up with him, he allegedly resisted arrest. One of the officers reportedly suffered minor injuries while trying to subdue Garring. He was charged with battery against a public safety official, a Level 6 felony; resisting law enforcement, a Class A misdemeanor; and escape, a Level 5 felony. No bond set. Garring also reportedly appeared to be under the influence of an illegal substance.

Friday, 3:38 a.m., North Main Street at South Sutton Circle. Officer pulled over a vehicle and arrested the driver, Jose Cruz Alfredo Jimenez, 32, Bluffton, on one count of operating a vehicle while intoxicated, a Class C misdemeanor, and one count of operating a vehicle while intoxicated endangering a person, a Class A misdemeanor. Bond set at $1,500. Allegedly at the time of his arrest, Jimenez had an alcohol concentration equivalency of .159 percent according to the results of a Breathalyzer test.

County: Thursday, 2:07 p.m., residence in the 700 block of Zuercher Lane, Ossian. Unwanted woman at the residence. Officer responded and the woman was warned for criminal trespass at the residence.

Thursday, 6:54 p.m., South Adams Street and Western Avenue. Deputy pulled over a vehicle traveling south on Adams Street north of Western Avenue after reportedly witnessing it cross the fog line. He noted in his report that he could smell an odor of both raw and burned marijuana coming from the interior of the vehicle. The driver reportedly admitted to having smoked marijuana in the vehicle the previous night. The deputy and a Bluffton police officer searched the vehicle and reportedly found a marijuana grinder with marijuana in it. The passenger, Germier Tori James, 20, address not listed, allegedly admitted the grinder was his. He was cited into Wells Superior Court for possession of marijuana, a Class B misdemeanor, and possession of drug paraphernalia, a Class C misdemeanor.

Friday, 12:52 a.m., Ossian police officer pulled over a vehicle and cited the driver, Darion Bryant, 20, address not listed, into Wells Superior Court for operating a vehicle without proof of financial responsibility (no insurance) a Class A infraction; driving while suspended with a prior conviction, a Class A misdemeanor; and possession of a handgun without a permit, a Class A misdemeanor. Bryant had a prior conviction in Allen County Superior Court for driving while suspended May 14, 2020.

"A nation reveals itself not only by the men it produces, but also by the men it honors." - President John F. Kennedy, October 1963

A local World War II Veteran, Ray Lesh, will be turning 100 years old on September 21 and plans to celebrate with his family this coming Sunday at his home. His family wanted to further commemorate this great accomplishment and milestone by reflecting on his lifetime of service, not only to his country, but also to his family and his beloved community over the years.

Ray Gilbert Lesh was born at home on September 21, 1920, in Bluffton, Indiana to his parents, Dwight and Lela (Gilbert) Lesh. As the fourth of six children, he learned early on what service and sacrifice meant as he helped on their family farm as a young boy. He attended Rock Creek Center where he excelled in woodworking classes and enjoyed playing basketball and baseball. In high school he began dating the love of his life, Margaret Roberta Milligan, or 'Bertie' as he lovingly refers to her. Ray also enjoyed participating in choir and the school play each year.

After graduating high school in 1938, Ray became a custodian at Rock Creek Center School alongside his older brother, Gerald, and continued to work on his family farm until he was drafted for World War II in February 1942. He served in the Army Air Corps as an airplane sheet metal mechanic in Australia and wrote to his parents and Roberta every day while serving his country.

Upon his return, he married his high school sweetheart, Roberta, in a small family wedding ceremony on January 25, 1946. They had 4 children: Dave, Linda, Bruce and Kent. Ray worked to build his own family farm while resuming his work as custodian at Rock Creek Center School. He dedicated 50 years of service to the school and loved continuing to be a part of the community where he grew up. Upon retirement from Northern Wells Community Schools, he continued to work on his farm and still enjoys mowing his yard to this day.

Ray's family has continued to grow over the years. He is the proud grandfather to 10 grandchildren, 13 great-grandchildren and 2 great-great-grandchildren. He will tell you the best days of his life were spent alongside his loving wife Bertie, who passed away at 97 years old in October 2018. They were married 72 years and have always reminded everyone that they have the best family.

Our family is so grateful and proud to be a part of your legacy, Ray. Happy 100!

Change the voting age to 16? Try 80.

San Francisco residents will vote on a measure in November to allow teenagers as young as 16 to vote in local elections.

That's according to The Hill, which also reports that in recent years, two women in Congress introduced measures to lower the voting age nationwide to 16.

One argument for doing so is that 16-year-olds are permitted to work and therefore must pay taxes — but, unable to vote for political leaders, they have no representation regarding how their tax "contributions" are spent.

Another is that young people should be able to help shape the world that they will run in the not-so-distant future.

Those are fair points. My response: We should raise the voting age to 80.

Youthfulness is wonderful — but not without its challenges where voting is concerned.

In our era of instant mass communication with millions through smartphones, the opportunity for misinformation to spread is incredible.

The younger one is, the more likely one is to take for gospel truth anything that appears in social media news feeds. Clips from hyperbolic cable news programs, which are more interested in ratings than in truthful discussion of our national challenges, are hurting our country.

In a representative republic, which requires an informed citizenry, the uninformed voter is challenging enough. But the misinformed voter risks giving political power to people who can do a lot of damage with it.

Critical thinking, which college education should teach, appears to be losing ground to uncritical "group-think." The younger and more passionate one is, the more one may be at risk of "getting facts wrong" and voting for silver-tongued politicians whose real goals are their own personal and financial gain.

An 80-year-old is much less likely to fall for such nonsense.

At 87, my father reads a print newspaper and does at least one crossword puzzle every day. He reads two or three books a week. His mind is sharp.

He has seen a lot of silver-tongued politicians come and go — and a lot of once-popular ideas do a lot of damage to a lot of people.

He remembers the hopefulness of the War on Poverty, for example. We've spent more than $20 trillion on it since the 1960s, and though it has helped millions avoid poverty in terms of food and housing, it has given us too much poverty of the spirit — too many broken families and children with limited opportunities to reach their fullest potential as human beings.

At 87, your bones ache. You find yourself in long conversations about roughage in your diet and good prostate health. You're in no mood for nonsense. You aren't easily swayed by the passions of the moment. You don't feel the need to faint at political rallies — unless you forgot your nutrition drink that morning.

You've paid way too many taxes and seen billions wasted on everything from unnecessary wars to pipe-dream programs that enrich lobbyists who get their pals in Congress to fund them more than they have done any good.

You know you may not be here much longer. All you care about is what you can do to make our country's future better for your children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. And that is the lens you would use to evaluate candidates and ideas.

We would be better off as a country if our voters did more cranky critical thinking and indulged in less feel-good emotional nonsense.

Bring on the octogenarian voters!

'Suspicious man' confesses

On September 18, the following excerpt from the police news was printed in the News Banner.

"Southern Wells schools, 9120S-300W. Report of a suspicious man in a black pickup truck in the school parking lot taking photos with a telephoto lens. An officer eventually located the man at his residence. He explained he was taking photos of the hazy sunrise."

I wanted to take the opportunity to thank this individual for keeping everyone safe from my camera.

Biden could win big and bring our country together, but he's chosen not to do it

It's now pretty clear that Joe Biden has a lead, but President Donald Trump has been closing nationally (which doesn't really matter) and in key battleground states (which matters a ton). Each party's base has been decided for months. The election, as usual, is largely about who can convince the people in the middle.

Trump's appeal to this group is he's the first politician in a long time who sounds like he's really clued in to their day-to-day concerns. His economic program succeeded in increasing wages and boosting employment until it was completely undone by the pandemic. Voters know that, and they like it. A lot of the voters in the middle also like Trump's independence from our country's established political leadership. They have had enough of the establishment.

What voters don't like is Trump's character, the chaos he brings and the coarsening of our national dialogue. People in the middle don't want our country on edge like it has been. They don't hate Trump the way the left does, but they are very open to removing him for a noncrazy alternative.

This is where Biden has his biggest opportunity, but to date, he has not chosen to take it. Biden has spent his entire career as a moderate. People know that. What they worry about is just how much he's actually in control of his own campaign and just how radical those around him may be. If Biden could answer these questions in a reassuring way, a huge win is within his grasp. With these four steps, which are mostly in line with where Biden has been his entire career, Biden would likely put up a huge victory:

First, Biden should reject the hard left completely. They scare the hell out of regular people, and they hate Trump so much that they will energetically support Biden by default. So, why does Biden seem to be pandering for their vote? This is what scares people the most. If he's afraid to push back on the crazies on his own side now, when it would help him politically, how can we have any reassurance Biden would do so when governing?

Joe Biden has never been a leftist. He knows the people burning down buildings and shooting at police are crazy and dangerous. Yet, just as Trump does with the alt-right or the QAnon crazies, Biden is reluctant to say this too directly. He stayed largely silent for months as downtowns to numerous cities were destroyed and police were attacked. It would be easy for Biden to strongly support peaceful protestors while making clear that he has absolutely zero tolerance for the violence and anarchy. He could start by calling out the antifa crazies and slapping down his own vice presidential nominee, Sen. Kamala Harris, who is raising funds to bail out dangerous criminals to this day. There is literally no political downside to this, and it's the right thing to do, so why won't Biden do it? All of this together makes people think Biden's scared of the hard left, not really in charge of his own campaign or both.

Second, Biden should come out hard in favor of the filibuster and do it expressly as a unifying call for reasonable independents and Republicans to join his cause. Biden knows this is the right thing to do. The filibuster rules have been in place for decades, and they assure that the Senate serves as a calming mechanism for our national fever pitches that come and go with each political cycle. The filibuster — requiring a 60-vote supermajority — makes consensus necessary and adds stability to our system right now, when we need it most. Taking this stand now would also ease the pressure on Biden to do something radical when in office. There's nothing about his background that should make anyone think Biden wants to blow up our political system. Why isn't he willing to remind moderate voters of this by taking this stand?

Third, Biden should follow the old liberal Democrat model by triangulating big business and coming out hard for American workers. That field is abandoned now. Many Trump Republicans are now supportive of a more pro-American worker agenda. In the era of the gig economy, we need to rethink how workers are protected. "Regular" Joe Biden is the perfect guy to take up this mantle. Doing so would remind American workers that Biden's on their side.

Fourth, Biden should come out extra tough on China. After botching the China issue early in his campaign, Biden has recently pivoted a little to adopt some of Trump's tough-on-China rhetoric. Biden should finish the job and admit directly that he gave China openness a shot and that it failed miserably. Then, he should make clear that we aren't going down without a fight and he's the guy to lead that fight. This fighting spirit is something people love about Trump. If Biden could show he has it in him, it would cut into one of Trump's biggest advantages.

As much as Trump voters love him, many Americans are upset about the state of our country. They want someone to come in and bring us together. With these four easy steps, mostly in line with his longtime views, Biden would reassure moderate voters that he's still the same guy. Maybe even more importantly, he'd reassure moderates that he's truly still captaining his own ship. If he had the guts to go all in on this plan, Biden could set himself up for a near Ronald Reagan-level historic victory. It's a Bill Clinton move. On the flip side, the fact that, to date, Biden has not been willing to take these largely moderate positions should scare anyone hoping he would govern as that moderate if elected.

President Trump brokers Mid-East peace

New York Times columnist Thomas Friedman observed in a column he wrote in 1996 that "no two countries that both have a McDonald's have ever fought a war against each other." Some have looked into how ironclad this rule is. But, in general, the point is pretty powerful.

The assumption is that countries that have American fast food franchises are generally interested in freedom of commerce, and that the more a nation's focus is on commerce and economic prosperity, the less it is interested in war. This provides perspective on the new historic peace agreement signed by the United Arab Emirates, Bahrain and Israel, the so-called Abraham Accords.

What has driven the seemingly unimaginable to happen?

Two Muslim Persian Gulf states stepped out on their own and signed a peace agreement with the Jewish state of Israel; moreover, they did so without any kind of agreement having been reached between Israel and the Palestinians. This was once thought highly improbable, if not impossible.

One useful place to look to get a handle on what's happening is the Heritage Foundation Index of Economic Freedom. The index ranks 180 countries around the world according to how economically free they are. Factors determining economic freedom include the effectiveness of law protecting private property, the overall fairness and quality of the court system; size of government and level of taxation; the ease with which businesses can open and operate; and the freedom to trade and invest.

We find that the United Arab Emirates is not just the most economically free of all the Persian Gulf states; it is one of the most economically free countries in the world. It ranks No. 18 out of 180 countries, one down from the United States. Israel is also among the most economically free countries in the world, ranking No. 26.

Immediately after the UAE stepped up to make peace with Israel, Bahrain followed suit. Bahrain ranks 63rd on the Heritage list, also not bad. It is one above France.

This is a wake-up call for the whole world. Power, force, hate, destruction: These things lead nowhere except to the perpetuation of human suffering.

Creation, not destruction, is the answer. And this happens when basic rules are respected, starting with law, ownership and private property — in other words, economic freedom.

Commerce is the finest of human cooperation, where people work together, each doing what they do best, to produce, trade and create greater and greater prosperity.

Did these two Arab states betray the Palestinians by going ahead on their own and making peace with Israel? The opposite. They did them a great favor. They are showing the Palestinians by example what road leads to peace.

I wrote a column 10 years ago called "The Simple Path to Middle East Peace." The Israelis had unilaterally pulled out of Gaza and turned it all over to the Palestinians, who had full sovereignty. Instead of using the opportunity to start building a country, the Palestinians started firing missiles into Israel. The Palestinian prime minister announced, "We are telling the world, today Gaza, tomorrow Jerusalem."

President Donald Trump has been nominated for a Nobel Peace Prize for brokering this historic deal, and he should get it. He understood that the UAE, Bahrain and Israel are interested in building prosperity, and he tapped into these positive sentiments to lay the groundwork for a new Middle East peace. There is a word for this: leadership.

I had the privilege of attending the opening of the new American embassy in Jerusalem.

On Tuesday, I had the privilege of attending the signing of the historic Abraham Accords ceremony at the White House. Let's hope this great moment will serve as a learning opportunity for the Palestinian leaders.

Peace comes through creation, not destruction.

A Joyful Noise ...

THE SCOURGE OF WELLINGTON WYND BAG THE IV
Three times, Barry Payton thought.

The man in the white pants, blue shirt and red tie had glimpsed out the window three separate times.

And each time, he checked his phone. Afraid the man would see him staring, Barry rearranged the lions ascending the ramp to Noah's ark. "Barry? How are you? Welcome to our Bible study. I'm Rita Powers."

Barry fumbled and almost flooded the ark on the Sunday school flannelgraph with his coffee as he turned around to shake the woman's hand.

"Hello," he said. "Happy to be here."

"Well, we hope everyone feels welcome," Rita said, smothering Barry in a perfume-drenched hug, "and if you ever need anything, just ask."

"Well ... " Barry hesitated. "Is the fellowship time always so ... tense?"

"Tense?" Rita asked, cocking her head and twinkling eyes in confusion.

"Well ... everyone is whispering. That gentleman keeps looking out the window, and one woman keeps reassuring another, 'The ends justify the means sweetie.'"

"Should I be concerned?" "Heavens no," Rita said smiling as she sipped her tea. "We're just kidnapping someone."

The man looked outside again. A lion fell off the flannelgraph.

The coffee burned Barry's tongue.

"I'm sorry. Did you say ..."

"The entire study group voted unanimously last week to kidnap Wellington Wyndbag the IV tonight."

"So, do you prefer the contemporary or traditional service?"

But before Barry could respond the man scurried over from the window and smiled at Rita.

"They're moving in." "What is going on?" Barry finally asked, his panic spilling over like his coffee.

"Barry's new here," Rita said, looking at the confused man before looking back at Barry.

"Barry," she continued, "Wyndbag is destroying this nation, and it's time somebody did something about it." "Amen!" the man said.

"He's the star of a Saturday morning show ... for children," Rita concluded crisply, but her voice suddenly dropped, "but it's not appropriate for anyone."

"But ... " "He tells kids to disobey their parents. He tells them to lie, to stay up as late as they want."

"And don't get me started on his butchering of American history."

"It should be a crime." "You're literally committing a crime ..." Barry stuttered.

"We've tried everything else. We held rallies, started a petition. We even tried starting our own show, 'Mr. Mike's Moral Values Hour.'"

"But did you pray?" Barry asked. "Teach the Bible? Fast? Reach out to the kids?" "Did you invite him to church? Does he even know the Gospel?"

"The Gospel?" Rita said, shocked. "Barry, this isn't about the Gospel."

Suddenly, the man's phone beeped.

"This is a battle for this nation's soul."

"Isn't it a battle for people's souls?"

"They've got him," the man interrupted.

"And they're here."

Suddenly the door burst open, and three men tumbled in—carrying a curiously small burlap bag.

Barry rushed past them, afraid to find a crumpled body in the hall, but everyone else encircled a small, plastic chair (beneath a painting of Jesus preaching the Sermon on the Mount), where the bag sat—motionless.

"He's in the bag," Barry thought, realizing his mistake too late.

He saw the mob huddle closer to the apparently petrified victim.

He saw Rita lean over; she clutched the top of the bag.

She yanked it off.

Barry winced.

"It's over, Wyndbag," Rita said coolly.

She looked down at the ventriloquist's dummy.

"It's a ventriloquist's dummy," Barry thought—tiny top hat, tiny tuxedo, and tiny smile above a tiny bow tie.

He didn't know if he should laugh, cry or still call the police.

Much later, Barry cradled his coffee in his apartment. He closed his eyes, massaged his temples and recalled his last conversation with Rita:

"Barry, this man's beliefs are dangerous," Rita said tersely.

"But they're not his ... its ... beliefs, and you haven't stopped his ... its ... message. The ventriloquist will just get another dummy."

"And we'll stop that dummy too."

"IT'S NOT ABOUT THE DUMMIES."

Rita, though, simply told him to go home.

"We're canceling the study anyway."

"What were we going to study?"

"Ephesians 6:12."

As he plummeted into his recliner, Barry opened his Bible and read, "For we do not wrestle against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this age, against spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places."

"Yeah, you need to study that, Rita, maybe 2 Corinthians 10:4-5 too."

He decided to read both chapters and pray for the rest of the evening, but a commercial caught his attention.

A senator was promising that—if re-elected—he would promote everything Barry opposed, and Barry felt the strife boiling in him.

Someone needs to silence him, he thought. Someone needs to kick him out of office.

"It's time somebody did something about it," he thought. "Hold a rally. Start a petition. Support another candidate."

"Ridicule him online!"

Barry jumped up to fetch his laptop.

And his Bible tumbled to the floor.

Wells Court Docket

Wells Superior Court Criminal Cases

Preliminary plea of not guilty entered for Colbryn E. M. Miller, 20, Bluffton, charged with minor consuming alcohol, a Class C misdemeanor. Bond continued at $500. Larry Mock appointed public defender.

On Sept. 17, police received a report of a battery in progress with men wielding baseball bats at the intersection of Market and Morgan streets. They found nothing at that intersection, so they decided to check around the area and questioned people milling about the area at 3:30 a.m. One told an officer he had been riding his bicycle all night around Bluffton, but had not battered anyone.

Another man then approached the officer and claimed that the man on the bicycle had beaten the other man's brother, Miller, with a baseball bat and had sprayed pepper spray on Miller. The bicycle man denied that was the case. Miller's brother said that Colbryn Miller would need medical attention because he was bleeding. The brother also claimed that two other men were involved in the attack.

The man on the bicycle said that he would not speak to police further without representation by a lawyer.

Police further questioned Miller's brother and he allegedly told them that his brother would have gone to a friend's house.

The officer questioned the brother further and then saw a group of people walking and decided to talk to them. Miller was among the group. He did not appear to be injured and told the officer there was no confrontation, but then reportedly later claimed to have been hit in the head with what he thought was a baseball bat and pepper sprayed by the man on the bicycle. The officer reported he did not see any evidence that Miller had been pepper sprayed, but asked Miller if he needed medical attention. Miller reportedly declined it. The officer noted in his report that Miller smelled of alcohol. He asked Miller if he had been drinking. He reportedly denied it at first but then later allegedly admitted he had. He allegedly tested .056 percent on a Breathalyzer test.

Contract to withhold prosecution/pre-trial diversion entered for Joshua A. Bridges, 18, Bluffton, charged with minor in possession of alcohol, a Class C misdemeanor.

The term of the contract is 12 months. If he successfully completes all provisions within the contract, the case against him will be dismissed.

Ordered to report to the Wells County Prosecutor's office, select a book from the pre-trial diversion book list and write a 500-word book report, undergo substance abuse evaluation, and pay $354 in costs and fees.

Bridges was arrested with Colbryn Miller Allegedly his alcohol content equivalency was .102 percent.

Steven Coal Cook, 33, rural Keystone, pleaded guilty to driving while suspended, a Class A misdemeanor.

Sentenced to a year in the Wells County Jail, with all but four days suspended — credited as time served, and placed on probation for 361 days.

Ordered to pay $525.50 in costs and fees. His probation will terminate upon his receiving a valid driver's license.

On Aug. 17, on 200W, a sheriff's deputy pulled over a motorcycle for not having a license plate. Cook had a license suspension dating back to Jan. 19, 2017, out of Blackford County Superior Court.

Kyle R. Newhard, 51, Kalamazoo, Mich., pleaded guilty to auto theft, a Level 6 felony. The judgment was vacated and the conviction was lowered to a Class A misdemeanor.

Sentenced to a year in the Wells County Jail — with all but 12 days suspended — credited as time served, and placed on probation for 353 days.

Ordered to pay $525 in costs and fees. On Jan. 2, Newhard borrowed his brother-in-law's 2015 GMC Sierra pickup truck and did not return it in the time agreed upon between the two men for the truck's return. He reportedly was five days late in returning it. By that time, the victim had already filed the theft report.

Terence D. Mack, 44, Fort Wayne, charged with operating a motor vehicle while never having been issued a driver's license, a Class C misdemeanor, entered into a contract to withhold prosecution/pre-trial diversion.

The duration of the contract is 12 months. If he fulfills the terms of the contract, the charge against him will be dismissed.

Ordered to take all necessary steps to acquire a valid Indiana driver's license, and pay $354 in costs and fees.

A Bluffton police officer pulled over a vehicle Mack was driving on North Main Street Sept. 2 after clocking it at 51 mph-40 zone.

Because the defendant is now deceased, one count of driving while suspended with a prior conviction for the same offense was dismissed for Andrew David Cook.

Marshall Dillon Smith, 27, Bluffton, pleaded guilty to synthetic identity deception, a Level 6 felony.

Sentenced to 900 days in prison, with all but 90 days suspended — credited as time served, and placed on probation for 810 days.

Ordered to submit a DNA sample and pay $1,195 in costs and fees.

As part of a plea agreement, a second count of synthetic identity deception, a Level 6 felony; driving while suspended, a Class A infraction, and operating a motor vehicle without financial responsibility (no insurance), a Class A infraction, were all dismissed.

A vehicle driven by Smith was pulled over by a Bluffton police officer Jan. 30. The officer noted the pickup truck Smith was driving had no license plate.

Smith claimed to not have a driver's license with him but told the officer he was Mitchell Lee Smith. The officer did a check and discovered Smith had a valid license and that the photo provided by the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles looked like Marshall Smith.

But the officer would later discover through further investigation that Mitchell Smith was Marshall's brother. The officer then started looking for the pickup truck and eventually pulled it over on Feb. 5. The officer asked Smith his identity and he again twice allegedly claimed to be his brother, Mitchell. The officer asked him again if he wanted to be honest. Smith then allegedly admitted he was Marshall Smith.

Man requests death for prison slaying

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — A man serving two life sentences at an Indiana prison asked for the death penalty for a slaying of a fellow inmate, but a prosecutor said he is reluctant to pursue it.

Tommy P. Holland, 45, of Indianapolis is charged with murder in the stabbing of Clifford Baggett at the Pendleton Correctional Facility on Aug. 9, 2019. Holland appeared in Madison Circuit Court this week and rejected a deal in which he would have pleaded guilty and received a third sentence of life without the possibility of parole.

Both the prosecutor and Holland's defense attorney said that Holland told Judge Andrew Hopper he wanted to be executed, The Herald Bulletin reported.

Madison County prosecutor Rodney Cummings said Holland told the court that he "will continue to drop bodies until you give me the death penalty."

Holland's attorney, Bryan Williams, confirmed that account.

Cummings said he would think about filing a death penalty case against Holland but that he was leaning against it.

Norwell football dominates New Haven

By JOSH BURRIS

The Norwell Knights certainly made a statement on Friday night, defeating the visiting New Haven Bulldogs 43-8 at The Courtyard.

New Haven (3-2), who had received votes in last week's Class 4A top-10 poll after a win over Class 2A power Pioneer, had defeated Norwell (4-1) in its last seven matchups and figured to do it again for an eighth straight time.

But Norwell had other plans, taking a 33-0 lead into halftime and setting off the running clock in the second half.

Norwell coach Josh Gerber said the win speaks to how far the program has come, but that they still have bigger goals ahead.

"We have come a long way," Gerber said. "Our goal was never just to beat New Haven though. We want to get better every week and hopefully win a sectional. It shows how far we've come and that we belong hopefully with the better teams in our conference. We like to think that we do. We got to go out and show that every week that we can compete with these guys and that we can beat these guys. It's the first time we've gotten one of those signature wins in a long time."

The Knights did not get off to the greatest start, with quarterback Eli Riley throwing an interception on their fourth play from scrimmage.

However, the defense responded with a bang. On New Haven's second offensive play, quarterback Jakar Williams was sacked and fumbled the ball. Norwell linebacker Joel Rinckenberger picked it up and ran 49 yards to the end zone for Norwell's first score of the game.

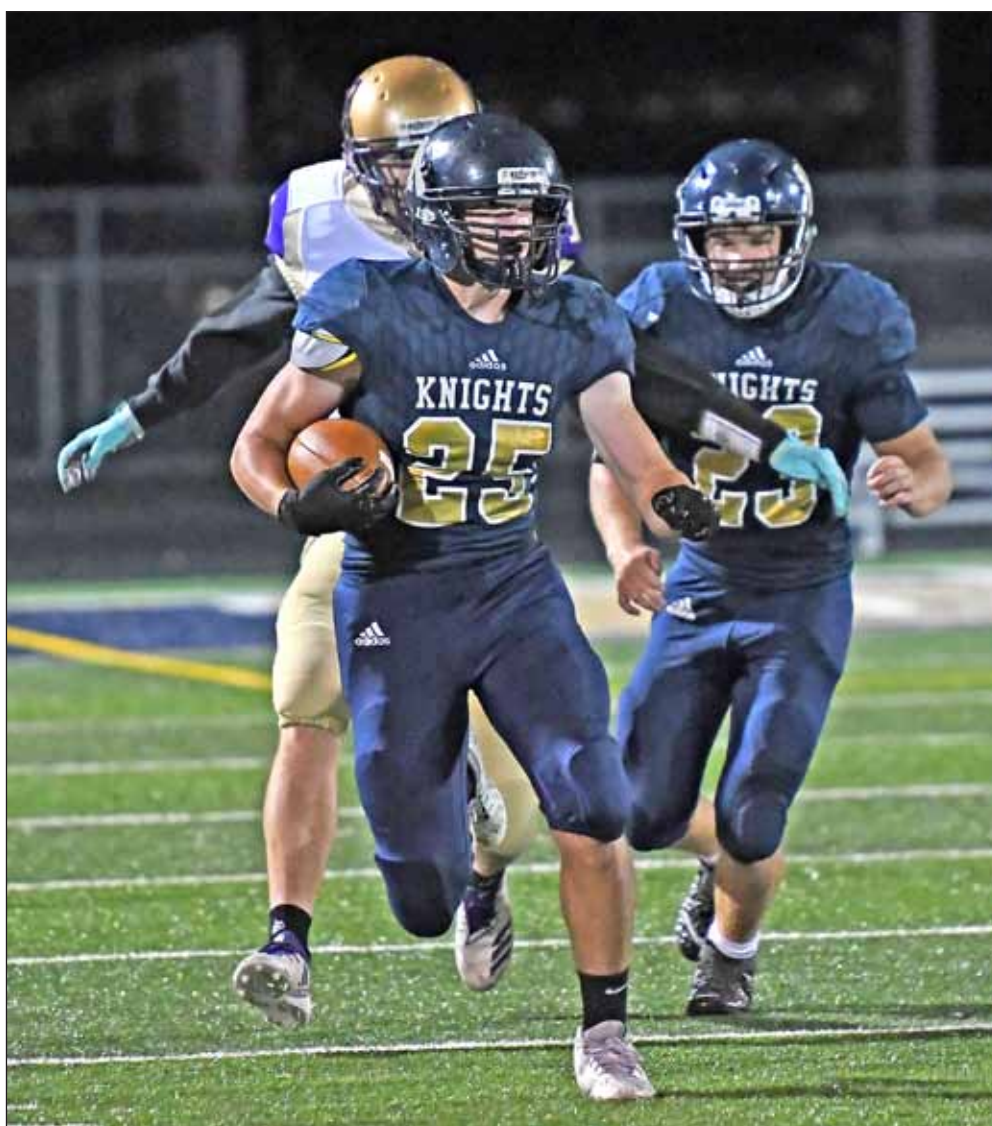

On the second play of Norwell's next offensive drive, Riley found the end zone on a 63-yard run to give his team a quick 14-0 lead.

Following a punt by both teams, Norwell got another big play from its defense.

Riley picked off a pass by Williams and returned it all the way to New Haven's 13-yard line. Three plays later, Riley connected with Isaiah Brege on a 5-yard touchdown pass.

Norwell got another quick score on its next drive. Riley hit wide receiver Luke Graft deep down field for a 39-yard gain that brought Norwell up to New Haven's 2-yard line. Two plays later, Riley found the end zone on a 1-yard run. Norwell's point after attempt was no good though, leaving the score at 27-0.

Norwell's following drive, making the score 33-0. Norwell elected to go for 2 to make it a 35-point game and set off a running clock in the second half. Riley's pass fell incomplete though, leaving the score at 33-0 with 3:22 left in the first half.

Norwell got two more drives before the half ended to extend its lead, but had to punt both times.

Norwell's defense had quite the first-half performance. Along with its two forced turnovers, it held New Haven to just 31 total yards of offense, one first down, and five three-and-outs.

"Our defense was playing great. We were really pleased just overall with the team effort defensively," Gerber said.

New Haven received the opening kickoff of the second half and finally found some success on offense. Williams completed a 21-yard pass to Nick Myles, a 13-yard pass to Thomas Latham, and then threw a 24-yard touchdown pass to Lane Woodson. Williams ran into the end zone on the 2-point conversion to make the score 33-8.

Norwell scored its first points of the second half with 1:22 remaining in the third quarter. They came on a 21-yard field goal by Austin DeLeon. Along with the field goal, DeLeon went 4-for-5 on extra-point attempts.

In the fourth quarter, Williams threw his second interception of the game, this time to Jon Colbert. And once again, Norwell's offense took advantage of the extra opportunity.

A 23-yard pass by Riley to Brege and a 26-yard run by Blake Haiflich helped get Norwell to New Haven's 2-yard line. Then Aiden Kuntz finished the drive with a run into the end zone. DeLeon's point after made the score 43-8 and set off that running clock with 6:35 remaining in the game.

Riley ended the night as Norwell's leading rusher with 114 yards. Max Ringger finished close behind with 107 yards.

Riley also went 8-for-16 in the passing game with 128 yards.

Brege was his top target, catching five passes for 81 yards.

Gerber said a lot more players are getting involved in the offense this year, which has made life easier for Riley, his quarterback.

"The guys up front offensively were good. Max Ringger saw the game well and made some nice cuts and had some really good runs. Eli was decisive in the passing game, getting the ball where it needed to be. Luke Graft made a couple big plays for us, and Isaiah Brege as well. Eli doesn't have to carry us like he did in the past. We got enough pieces around him where we can get a lot of people involved," Gerber said.

Norwell will have another big test next Friday when it travels to East Noble, a team that came into Friday ranked No. 7 in Class 4A.

Nern's big night leads Bluffton past Jay County

By ANDREW FEEBACK

An impressive, possibly even historic, performance from Bluffton quarterback Hayden Nern sent the Tigers to a 48-7 rout over the visiting Jay County Patriots Friday night.

Nern completed 19 of 29 passes for 348 yards. Six of those completions went for touchdowns.

It could be the first time a Bluffton quarterback has ever thrown that many in a game.

"I'd have to check on that," coach Brent Kunkel said. "Hayden is our leader; we came into the season with his arm and his ability in mind, and tonight you kind of saw the fruition of that."

Bluffton improved to 4-1, while Jay County remained winless at 0-5.

The Bluffton offense operated almost flawlessly on the night, racking up 490 total yards and never punting.

Nern also threw a pair of interceptions, but both were on deep throws and one of them came in the final seconds of the first half.

Although the final score wouldn't reflect it, the defense struggled at times.

Jay County running back Bailey Cox ran 26 times for 188 yards, causing problems for the Tigers up the middle. He carried four times for 58 yards on the Patriots' opening series, prompting a timeout from the Tigers.

That seemed to do the trick for Bluffton, as the Tigers pushed him back on the next two plays before coming up with a fourth down stop in the red zone.

"That fullback runs the ball hard," Kunkel said. "The guards and center were making a wedge, and he was getting in there and hitting it quick. We gave up some yards, but turned them away two or three times in the red zone."

Bluffton took a 7-0 lead when Nern ran 9 yards for a score.

The Tigers forced a punt and then went up 14-0 when Nern threw a 3-yard strike to Seth Bennett.

The Tiger defense gave up a couple big runs, but stopped the Patriots at the 6-yard line on fourth and goal.

On the next play, Nern aired one out to Bobby Malcolm for a 94-yard touchdown pass to make it 21-0.

Jay County went three-and-out, and the Tiger offense went back to work. Nern threw a 25-yard touchdown pass to Cody Mittlestedt to give Bluffton a four-score lead.

Following a short Bluffton kickoff, Jay County got down to the Tiger 29-yard-line, where Caleb Hale took a pitch and scored the Patriots' only points of the night.

The Tigers got a short field to begin the second half when the Patriots tried an unsuccessful onside kick and were penalized for a late hit. Nern threw his second touchdown pass to Malcolm, this one from just 2 yards out, to make it 35-7.

The defense came up with a couple more stops in the third quarter, turning the Patriots over on downs in the red zone and coming up with an interception in the end zone off a deflected pass.

Nern threw a short pass to Mittlestedt, who outran everyone for an 80-yard score.

On the Tigers' next, and final, possession, Nern threw a 16-yard touchdown pass to Alec Reiff, and the running clock took effect.

Kunkel credited his offensive linemen for doing their jobs effectively.

"Hayden played a tremendous game, but bigger than that was our offensive line up front," he said. "He didn't get touched. Proud of my five guys up front, and obviously proud of Hayden and how he stepped up and led the team."

Bluffton will take a long trip south next week to face the Greensburg Pirates, a Class 3A team that is 3-2. The game was added to the schedule earlier this week.

"We were looking for a Week 6 opponent, and they were open," Kunkel said. "We looked at schedules and rankings and saw we were fairly even."

Due to the travel distance, kickoff will be at 7:30.

Hundreds of thousands still without power in Sally cleanup

By ANGIE WANG
and JAY REEVES
Associated Press

LOXLEY, Ala. (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of people were still without power Friday along the Alabama coast and the Florida Panhandle in the aftermath of Hurricane Sally as officials assessed millions of dollars in damage that included a broken bridge in Pensacola and ships thrown onto dry land.

While the cleanup pressed on, the record-shattering hurricane season notched another milestone: Forecasters ran out of traditional names for storms after three new systems formed in about six hours. That forced them to begin using the Greek alphabet for only the second time since the 1950s.

In Loxley, Alabama, Catherine Williams lost power and some of her roof to Sally. The storm also destroyed three pecan trees in her yard that she used to try to make ends meet.

"There's no food, no money. I took my last heart pill today," said Williams, who has been laid off twice from her job as a cook because of the economic problems caused by COVID-19. She hoped that the Red Cross would soon show up at her home.

Two people in Alabama were reported killed — a drowning and a death during the cleanup in Baldwin County. In Florida, authorities were looking for a missing kayaker who was feared dead in Escambia County.

The supercharged Atlantic hurricane season has produced so many named storms that scientists ran out of traditional names as Tropical Storm Wilfred developed in the eastern Atlantic. It was only the second time that has happened since forecasters standardized the naming system in 1953. Wilfred was weak and far from land.

Two hours after Wilfred took shape, the National Hurricane Center moved to the Greek alphabet when Subtropical Storm Alpha formed just off the coast of Portugal. It was followed later in the day by Tropical Storm Beta, which formed in the western Gulf of Mexico. The same practice will govern storm names for the rest of hurricane season, which lasts until the end of November.

The only other time the hurricane center dipped into the Greek alphabet was the deadly 2005 hurricane season, which included Hurricane Katrina's strike on New Orleans.

The onslaught of hurricanes has focused attention on climate change, which scientists say is causing wetter, stronger and more destructive storms.

In Pensacola, Mamie Patterson was cleaning the yard of her cousin who was recovering from heart surgery after they lost power in a low-income neighborhood in Pensacola.

Patterson's mother uses an oxygen machine that they took to an uncle's home to charge because he had power. She saw utility trucks all over the city and wondered when power would be restored in her neighborhood, where several inches of water was standing in streets more than 48 hours after the storm.

"We feel a lot forgotten back here," she said. "I hate to say it, but it's the ghetto neighborhoods. We don't have lights."

Elsewhere in the city, Karen Robinson sat on the steps of her first-floor apartment and rattled off a list of belongings ruined by 4 feet (120 centimeters) of water from Sally — clothes, shoes, furniture and food.

It took months to recover from a 2015 flood after a heavy rainstorm sent nearly the same amount of water from a creek into the 200-unit complex. She was concerned because more than two months are left in hurricane season.

"This could happen again. That's the problem," Robinson said as men tossed soggy items out of an apartment window nearby.

In Louisiana, about 41,000 people remain without power around Lake Charles, where Hurricane Laura made landfall on Aug. 27. On Oak Island, North Carolina, which was ground zero for Hurricane Isaias on Aug. 3, some rental homes finally reopened by Labor Day.

"It wasn't pretty. We had piles of sand everywhere, plies of debris everywhere, but the roads were open," Mayor Ken Thomas said.

With the dunes that provide some protection to the island gone, Thomas said people will be nervous for the rest of the storm season.

Indiana has biggest increase in foster care adoptions in nation

By RYAN TRARES
Daily Journal of Johnson County

WHITELAND — Now was the time to act. Children needed help.

For 10 years, Brent and Amy Fox had pondered if they should become foster parents. The Whiteland couple had first considered opening their home to foster children shortly after the birth of their youngest daughter, but kept pushing it aside, believing they couldn't do it.

But after a decade, they sat down and had to decide — either they take the first step toward fostering, or drop the topic entirely.

They pushed through their fears.

"We had to just do it afraid. Our fears and uncertainties and doubts and insecurities did not go away once we said yes," Amy Fox said. "We're not extra strong or really special or super brave. We are regular, normal people who chose to say yes."

State comes out on top

The Foxes shared their story during an announcement Thursday by Gov. Eric Holcomb that Indiana was the nation's best at increasing the number of children adopted from foster care. In 2019, 2,489 children were adopted throughout the state, a significant increase from the 2,017 adopted the year before.

For that progress, and to further increase adoptions, Indiana was awarded $4.7 million from the U.S. Administration for Children and Families. The money will be used to further enhance Indiana's child welfare system.

"Every child deserves to have people who will love and support them forever, so we've set out to ensure each is a part of a permanent, loving family," Holcomb said. "With more than 1,000 kids in Indiana who are still waiting to be adopted, we appreciate our federal partners' continued support as we pursue forever homes for each and every one."

Holcomb made increasing adoption one of his top agenda items, and worked with the Department of Child Services to focus on matching children in the foster care system with permanent placements.

In 2018, the governor's office worked with Terry Stigdon, director of the Indiana Department of Child Services, to build a culture to meet that goal. A dedicated adoption unit was created within the department, bringing on additional staff to focus on adoption solely. The number of adoption consultants has more than doubled, starting with seven consultants and growing to 19. An enhanced database has allowed for better tracking of potential adoptive families, and a picture book of children available to adopt.

A statewide rapid permanency review, designed to bring permanency to children and promote systemic change within the child welfare system by identifying barriers and implementing strategies to remove them, will be rolled out in the near future, Holcomb said.

"We're empowering those family case managers to do that, to have those resources and to make it their main mission to find those permanent homes and loving parents, and unite the two," Holcomb said.

Indiana has been working with the Administration for Children and Families, the federal agency focused on economic and social well-being of families. One of the agency's primary goals has been increasing adoptions of foster children, said Lynn Johnson, assistant secretary of the Administration for Children and Families.

Part of that effort was distributing adoption and legal guardianship incentive awards, given to agencies that show progress in increasing the number of children in foster care who find permanent homes either through adoption or legal guardianship.

Of 49 states receiving those awards, Indiana is at the top, Johnson said.

"You all in Indiana are working hard to promote a culture of life by focusing on adoptions and child welfare," she said.

Family shares adoption journey

The Fox family is an example of the revamped system's success.

Brent and Amy Fox, together with their daughters

Kirah and Kenah, and their adopted children Devonte, 4, and Xavier, 3, took time Thursday to talk about their adoption journey.

They shared about the first inklings they had about adoption, after Kenah was born. At the same time, they shared the daunting scope of that decision, and how they didn't feel ready.

"We spent the next 10 years trying to ignore that conviction, because we were too scared, and it seemed like way too much for us to handle," Brent Fox said.

The possibility of becoming foster parents bounced around for the next decade, until the Foxes decided they needed to give themselves an ultimatum, the result of which was getting their foster parent licenses.

In 2017, they were joined with their first placement, Devonte. Initially, they had only intended to foster one child at a time. But when they learned Devonte had a younger newborn brother, Xavier, they opened their home to him as well.

"We doubled the amount of kids in our family in a short amount of time, but we would not have it any other way," Brent Fox said.

On July 10, 2019, they adopted the two children, officially welcoming them into their family. The decision to become a foster family, and eventually adopt, is not an easy one, Amy Fox said. Their family is not extraordinary; they were scared and uncertain throughout the process, and still have so much to learn, she said.

But the impact on Devonte and Xavier out-shined all of those fears. And she encouraged people to help foster children in any way they can — whether that's taking the first step toward becoming a foster family, or being available to families who are fostering.

"Everyone can do something," Amy Fox said. "Every child in Indiana belongs in a family, and families need your support."

Much work remains
Despite the successes of the past two years, state officials recognized that much work remains when it comes to placing children in safe homes, Stigdon said. On average, it takes

Amy and Brent Fox, along with their children — Kirah, Devonte, Kenah and Xavier — pose with Gov. Eric Holcomb at an event Thursday recognizing Indiana's work with foster care adoptions. (Submitted photo)

332 days from the time of the termination of parental rights to the time when a foster child secures a forever home.

That has to improve, Stigdon said.

"If we want to offer the best service to Hoosier families and children, we have to be willing to constantly examine how we do our jobs and consider ways we can do them better," she said.

With the award from the Administration for Children and Families, the state can keep working to do just that, Holcomb said.

"We're not going to let up for one second. We have over 1,000 children just in Indiana seeking that forever home. We take that as our assignment," he said. "We're looking not just to be there for them, but to share the good word all across the state of Indiana."

U.S. bans WeChat, TikTok from app stores

By TALI ARBEL, MATT O'BRIEN
and MATT OTT
AP Technology Writers

The U.S. Commerce Department said Friday it will ban Chinese-owned TikTok and WeChat from U.S. app stores on Sunday and will bar the apps from accessing essential internet services in the U.S. — a move that could effectively wreck the operation of both Chinese services for U.S. users.

TikTok won't face the most drastic sanctions until after the Nov. 3 election, but WeChat users could feel the effects as early as Sunday.

The order, which cited national security and data privacy concerns, follows weeks of dealmaking over the video-sharing service TikTok. President Donald Trump has pressured the app's Chinese owner to sell TikTok's U.S. operations to a domestic company to satisfy U.S. concerns over TikTok's data collection and related issues.

California tech giant Oracle recently struck a deal with TikTok along those lines, although details remain foggy and the administration is still reviewing it. Trump said Friday said he was open to a deal, noting that "we have some great options and maybe we can keep a lot of people happy," suggesting that even Microsoft, which said its TikTok bid had been rejected, might continue to be involved, as well as Oracle and Walmart.

Trump noted that TikTok was "very, very popular," said "we have to have the total security from China," and added that "we can do a combination of both."

The new order puts pressure on TikTok's owner, ByteDance, to make further concessions, said James Lewis of the Center for Strategic and International Studies. Trump had said this week that he does not like the idea of ByteDance keeping majority control of TikTok.

TikTok expressed "disappointment" over the move and said it would continue to challenge President Donald Trump's "unjust executive order." The Commerce Department is enacting an order announced by President Donald Trump in August. TikTok sued to stop that ban.

WeChat owner Tencent said in an emailed statement that it will continue to discuss ways to address concerns with the government and look for long-term solutions.

Google and Apple, the owners of the major mobile app stores, did not immediately reply to questions. Oracle also did not reply.

Huntington's Twin Drive-In Theatre is located at 1291 Condit St. just off of old U.S. 24.

How about a movie at a drive-in?

By BARBARA BARBIERI

If you are among the folks who have been missing going to the movies maybe going to a drive-in movie will be just the thing. All are practicing social distancing.

In our area there are three options with the closest being the Huntington Twin Drive-In, just off of old U.S. 24 on Condit Street on the city's east side. Double features are offered Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday through October. Admission is $5 for adults and $2 for children. Concessions are available. To check on what is playing call 260-356-5445.

Another option is the 13-14 Drive-In in Wabash at 890N Ind. 13, operating through September. Admission is $6 per car. Concession are available. To check on features call 260-563-5745. Some live events are featured as well. This theater has been in operation for 64 years and is now one of the Honeywell Foundation entertainment sites.

A little farther from Wells County will be the Auburn Garrett Drive-In at 1014 Ind. 8 near Garrett. This facility began operation in 1951. It will be open through October on Friday and Saturday evenings. Admission is $8 for adults, $2 for kids, and free to those 4 and younger. Double features are shown and concessions are available. The website of auburngarrettdrivein.com updates the features each Tuesday. More information by calling 260-357-3474.

According to the driveinmovie.com website, there are only about 330 drive-in theaters that remain in operation in the United States compared to a peak of about 4,000 in the late 1950s.

How nature nurtures your child

BY MICHAEL ROIZEN, M.D.,
AND MEHMET OZ, M.D.

In the animated film “Tarzan II,” young Tarzan (voiced by Harrison Chad) has to come to terms with his place in the family of apes that has adopted him and with his life in the jungle. After travels and tribulations, he does just that, thriving because of his happy relationship with the nature around him.

There’s a lot of research on the cognitive and emotional benefits to kids of regularly spending time in nature. They include better school performance, more creativity, improved fitness, less depression and hyperactivity, stronger bones, improved eyesight (less nearsightedness) and better sleep. But too many of today’s youngsters have what’s been called nature-deficit disorder. It’s a nonmedical term that describes behavioral and developmental/learning problems, from attention deficits to depression, that can arise when kids live indoors, staring at a digital screen five or more hours a day.

How do you change your video-gaming 12-year-old into a Tarzan too? A new study out of North Carolina State University says solitary activities in which your child is one-on-one with nature, such as fishing or hiking, are keys to building a strong love of nature, as are outdoor social activities, such as playing sports or camping. So head to a local, state or national park, take a drive in the country, and let your child explore and discover new and mysterious plants and animals. Remember, Mom and Dad, it’s a sedentary lifestyle that imperils your child’s health and happiness. (Psst! That’s as true for you as it is for your kids).

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Voit proves he's the real deal for the Yankees

From a man without a job to a critical cog, Luke Voit has enjoyed a meteoric rise with the New York Yankees.

Indeed, in their 29-year-old first baseman, the Bombers have a budding star who has raked more or less consistently since his arrival in the Bronx.

Acquired in July 2018 from the St. Louis Cardinals, where he was blocked from a starting job by Jose Martinez, the Missouri native quickly rewarded Yankee GM Brian Cashman's confidence in him by batting .333 with 14 home runs a 1.095 OPS in 39 games.

He followed that up in 2019 with more impressive mashing, again batting .333, this time with 17 homers and a .959 OPS in 78 games. An All-Star berth seemed to be in his future when disaster struck.
